Principle of operation:

Cast iron's higher thermal capacity allows it to absorb and store a significant amount of heat. This stored heat is then gradually radiated, providing comfortable and even heat around the firebox.

Smokeless fire pits made of cast iron are designed to promote efficient combustion and minimize smoke. The combination of material properties and the structure of the fireplace leads to cleaner and more pleasant combustion, especially when only dry wood is used.

The fireplace does not produce smoke and is not bothersome for users and their surroundings! Grate, cover and cover included.
